GOVERNOR SIGNED INCOME TAX BILL; PLEASSED WITH LAW

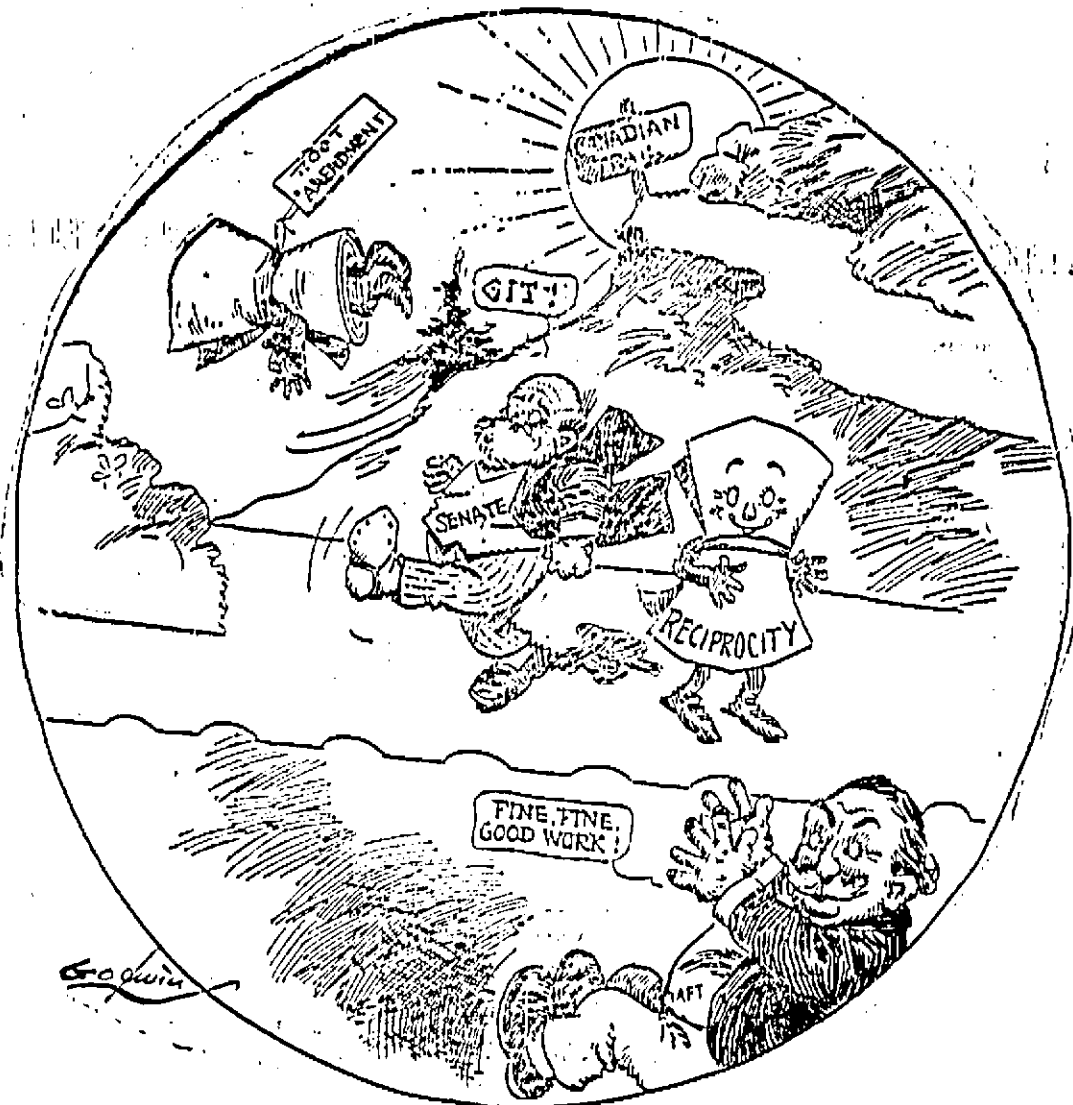

Wisconsin Now Has Income Tax Law Which Meets With Complete Approval of Governor McGovern.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.] Madison, Wis., July 14.—Wisconsin's enactment of an income tax law was completed at 3:55 o'clock yesterday afternoon when Gov. McGovern signed the bill, 573a, creating this revenue-producing scheme. Accompanying the bill the governor returned a memorandum reviewing the features of the law and bestowing praise upon its various provisions.

Gov. McGovern recalled that practically every penny of revenue raised by this bill over and above the cost of administration will go to support local government (10 per cent to the state, 20 per cent to the county and 70 per cent to the town, city or village, in which it is collected), but that the entire expense of administration will be borne by the state.

"One may very safely say," he added, "that the entire net proceeds of this tax will go into the local treasury."

Criticism Answered. "This feature affords a complete answer to the criticism that an income tax is sound in principle but should be

Admits Lorimer Helped Him to His Election as State's Attorney Which Gave Him Big Revenue.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] Washington, D. C., July 14.—It appears probable that no final action will be taken on the request for the investigation of the election of Senator Stephenson of Wisconsin, until next winter.

Eight members of the committee on elections are hearing the Lorimer case, the others are taking part in the reciprocity debate.

An investigation of the pipe lines, rates, the classifications and regulations were ordered today by the interstate commerce commission.

After testifying regarding the alleged "kickback" and general corruption in the Illinois legislature before the Lorimer committee today, Governor Deneen was cross-examined by the counsel for Lorimer.

Deneen admitted Lorimer had supported him for state's attorney, a position from which he received three hundred thousand dollars in salary and fees.

The counsel attempted to show that Deneen, not Lorimer, was the controlling political power in Illinois. Gov. Deneen denied he organized the legislature or that Lorimer was responsible for the former's political start.

Map Showing the Devastated District. Below, Congressman Loud who is a Heavy Loser in the Fire Which Swept Thousands of Acres of His Timber Lands.

Bay City, Mich., July 14.—Reports from the devastated district of Northern Michigan show an appalling list of fatalities and a high property loss. The towns of Oscoda and Au Sable have been absolutely wiped from the map. The fire is spreading to many of the towns in the vicinity. Refugees from the district were unable to estimate the number of dead, but think it will run into hundreds. They report that as they picked their way through the smoke, they continually fell over the dead bodies of old men and women and children. The property loss is estimated at a million and a half. In this loss, Congressman Loud of the 10th Michigan district is heavily interested.

Cobalt, Ontario, July 14.—With the fire in northern Ontario under control, the government is today devoting all its attention to alleviating the suffering of survivors and recovering bodies from the devastated district. Hunt for Carroll Smith Fruitless. Search for Missing Milton Man is Being Continued But No Further Clue of His Whereabouts Has Been Gained.

Mystery still surrounds the disappearance of Carroll Smith of Madison, who has been missing since Tuesday morning when he came to Janesville. Everything that might furnish a clue to where the man has gone has been done and nothing further than the fact that he visited at the hotel here, Wednesday, can be learned of him.

Attorney Charles Pearce, who has been Mr. Smith's legal representative in an effort to locate the man was in Beloit and Rockford last evening and made inquiries for Mr. Smith, but failed to gain any information of value. The sheriff, also, is continuing his investigation, but despite the efforts put forth to return the man to his relatives, the search seems almost hopeless. That the man could be in the city and escape observation, by at least a few who know him, seems peculiar, but is nevertheless true, as inquiry has been made all about the city with no results.

WANTS INFORMATION AND AID OF PUBLIC TO PROTECT SIGNS

Street Commissioner Wilkins After Persons Who Destroyed Signs in Spring Brook.

REWARD! I will pay ten dollars for information that will lead to the arrest and conviction of the person or persons who tore up and threw into the river, the sign on McKee Boulevard which prohibited the dumping of refuse or garbage.

DANIEL WILKINS,
Street Commissioner.

Street Commissioner Wilkins is having a hard time convincing some persons that he means business when he places signs prohibiting the dumping of garbage and refuse along the river bank or on vacant lots throughout the city. Recently several of his painted signs in Spring Brook disappeared and were found in the river later. Now Mr. Wilkins wants information that will lead to the arrest and conviction of the persons who put them there.

Since taking his office Mr. Wilkins has proved himself an excellent street commissioner. This department is perhaps one of the most important ones in the city and needs careful attention. The street commissioner is a person "non grata" to the persons violating the law, still he must keep up his work or be criticized.

Citizens interested in keeping the city sweet and clean should aid in the work by refraining from dumping material in the gutters that will tend to clog the gutters and storm sewers and also from dumping refuse and garbage on vacant lots.

Morris and they have already arranged to have an interesting ball game between two clubs to be selected from among the members of the Beloit and Janesville councils. Chairman Burns of the Beloit committee was present at the meeting and is very enthusiastic for the union of the two councils in this way and promises a good time for all.

FARM NOTES.

Not Written for Farmers. By H. L. RANN.

Some farmers are inclined to show partiality in weaning pigs. This causes trouble in the family and frequently results in coolness arising between brother and sister. The pig which is yanked away from the teat by the ruthless hand of a hired man who was brought up on the bottle and who sees his little brother lunging up on a table of choice chow twelve or fifteen times a day is likely to show a lack of filial respect by biting a chunk out of the old man's bleary. The only pig which should be weaned on the installment plan is the runt with a tank like a power churn and a grip like an entered apprentice. There is no more pathetic sight than a runt pig leaping up against a peck of old corn with gums accustomed to a pacifier. If more farmers would use a little judgment in this delicate matter, there would be less whine come in the hog house.

Anxious inquirer wants to know: "What would you do if you owned a cribbing horse?" We should empty the palpitating contents of an apartment house pistol into his tailfeathers without exciting haste or a bad pen. The cribbing gelding is a bigger nuisance than the better which expels torments with so much haste and precision that the cow yard looks like the interior of a cotton gin. The horse which persists in making a full meal off of red cedar posts should be laid on his stomach and equipped with a set of red-lined artificial teeth. These can be rotated between meals and secured with chloride of lime, and this is the only treatment that will do any good. After a gelding has gone up against a hard pine snitch in his bare gums, his appetite will fall away faster than a fat agent in a Turkish bath.

BURNT BUILDING IS MASS OF DEBRIS

Part of Walls of Structure on Bleasdale Property on South Jackson St. Fell Last Night.

Only a shell of the old building on South Jackson street owned by the Bleasdale estate, which was burned yesterday afternoon, remains today and the rear of the building is a mass of debris. Last night about eight o'clock one of the walls of the rear wing fell and there is practically nothing of that portion of the structure left. The rest of the building is beyond repair and the building may be condemned, but the state fire marshal alone is authorized to order the place razed. The property on which the building is located is valuable real estate and would be a splendid site for a business block but through a complication in the affairs of the estate it had long been allowed to remain in a dilapidated condition.

While fighting the flames yesterday, Fireman Cornelius Ryan of the Spring Brook station was out about the head, had his hands cut and was bruised about the shoulder hips and limbs when the chimney fell over on him. He was rendered unconscious for a minutes, but revived quickly and was taken to Dr. Penber's office where his wounds were dressed. He went to his home, but after making a change of clothing went back on duty at the station.

Profil oil is used for this purpose and is forced from the tank on the car through a long pipe that is extended from the car across the side of the right of way and as the burning oil is forced by a blast arrangement from the jets in the pipe the grass and weeds are burned as the car moves along the track.

COMMERCIAL LEAGUE SCHEDULE FOR THE SEASON ARRANGED

Managers of Factory Team at Meeting Last Night Made Arrangements for the Rest of Season.

At a meeting of the managers of the factory teams in the Commercial league at the Y. M. C. A. building last evening, a schedule of games for the rest of the season, to fit in with those already played was agreed upon and adopted. Each team in the league played two games with each of the other teams in the league. On account of the late entrance of the Hanson Furniture company and Gazette teams, the arrangement of the schedule was made rather difficult but the matter has been cared for satisfactorily. Plans were discussed for increasing the attendance at the games as the fans have not been turning out as well as is desired. It was decided to recommend to the directors that a banquet should be held at the close of the season, to which the players on all teams would be invited. In this way, it was thought, the interest of the players in the league would be kept alive and the league would be more successful. The matter will be left to the directors to decide upon.

Only four games were arranged for tomorrow, the Y. M. C. A. and Caloric unless having off. The Parker Furniture company and the Hanson Furniture company will be matched in the opening game of the double-header at Athletic park, and the Plumbers will play the Gazette in the second contest. There will be no game at the fair grounds.

Rockford Orioles Here.
Much interest has developed in the announcement that the Orioles of Rockford are to play in this city, Sunday, against the Janesville city team. The Orioles are a speedy bunch of athletes and the contest at the fair grounds, Sunday, promises to be the best of the season. The Orioles have been playing in the form all this season and have a nice string of victories to show for their work. The Monroe team can attest to this, the Green county aggregation meeting defeat, 4 to 2. This victory, while clean, is particularly fine for the Orioles' plumage, as the Monroe squad is counted one of the strongest in this section and has a happy faculty of winning on its own grounds. The Orioles also took the Ramblers of the Forest City into camp. The Ramblers held the local team to a 2 to 1 score.

OUTING CLUB SPENT DAY IN FOOTVILLE

Ladies from Janesville Journeyed to Footville Where Their Meeting and a Picnic Was Enjoyed.

The Summer Outing Club of Janesville and other towns around this part of the county, went to Footville yesterday morning at ten-thirty-five and enjoyed a most profitable and pleasant day there. A special train left Janesville at that time carrying the ladies from here, and delegations also were present from Hanover and Appleton.

At Footville a delicious dinner was served in the Christian church, and a program rendered. Mrs. Colony of Evansville gave a talk on the "Fruit of the Club Woman," and Mrs. Vincent O'Shea talked on "The Home and the School." Both of these talks were excellent. Mrs. J. B. Day of Janesville gave an interesting talk on "Philanthropic Work." Besides these papers there were also suggestions from various ladies, speaking on different subjects.

Mrs. Fisher, who won a Caloric Fireless cooker in the Gazette contest, donated it to the club to be used for its benefit.

Taken as a whole, the ladies had a most pleasant and profitable trip one that all enjoyed thoroughly.

Ready to Meet At Windsor.
Windsor, Ont., July 14.—Every thing is in readiness for the opening tomorrow of the summer race meeting of the Windsor Fair Grounds and Driving Park Association. The feature event of the opening day will be the Frontier Handicap, 1-8 miles, in which are entered Plate Glass, winner of the Fourth of July handicap at Fort Erie; Meridian, the Kentucky Derby winner, and a number of other of the speediest horses of the year. The meeting here will last seven days, during which time seven stake events will be decided.

Rich Prizes For Motor Cyclists.
Buffalo, N. Y., July 14.—With more than $1,000 in cash prizes and an equal amount in medals and trophies, the national racing meet of the Federation of American Motor Cyclists, which was inaugurated at the Fort Erie Track today, promises to be the most important meet of its kind ever held. Today's programme called for eight events, beginning with a five-mile novice contest and ending with a twenty-five mile race for professionals. The meet will continue over tomorrow.

Race for World's Sculling Title.
Slaters, N. S. W., July 14.—The race between Armit and Pearce for the sculling championship of the world which was to have been rowed on the Paramatta River tomorrow, has been postponed until the end of July.

Tenement Death Rate Heavy.
About 2,000 children under five years old die in the New York tenement districts each month.

BOY SCOUTS TAKE HIKE INTO COUNTRY

Boy Scouts Take Another Cross Country Hike Today; Plans in Preparation for an All-Night Hike Soon.

This afternoon at four-thirty, as many of the Boy Scouts as could meet at the Court House Park and started on another hike, across country. The route lay out through the sand hills around the sugar beet factory, and through the Black Hawk woods east of town. The boys were told about the Indian mounds around this part of the country, and also about the Black Hawk Camp which was situated in the woods of that name. A number of pictures of the scouts were also taken. The leader on this hike was Will Hyde.

The life and drum corps which the Spanish war veterans with the boys of organization, seems to be on the road to accomplishment, for a number of the boys have signified their desire to be members of such a corps, and the veterans are ready at any moment to carry out their part of the bargain, and furnish the instruments and uniforms. They have also given the added incentive of offering the Scouts the use of their hall for meetings if such a corps is formed. Such a hall is needed quite badly by the Scouts, not for their drills, but for meetings for instructions and orders. It is quite possible that they may be given the use of either hall so that there would be no need of imposing on the Veterans' kindness. Plans for a Scout orchestra have been quite enthusiastically received, and it will probably be started about the first of September, when the boys get together for the commencement of school.

In order that their trips may not be confined to daytime and that they may receive some experience in camping, Secretary Reader of the Scouts, is arranging plans whereby he and Mr. Hookout of the Gazette office may take the boys out overnight up the river. Such a trip would be a very pleasant one, for Mr. Hookout has been in the navy and could entertain the boys with stories of his life there. However, before such a hunt can be undertaken, the boys will have to be provided with small dog tents.

FOOTVILLE.
Footville, July 13.—As there was no school meeting on July 3, on account of the storm and also being just before the fourth, it was postponed till Monday, July 17. The school board would like to have the people of both districts out in full force as there is business of much importance to be brought up at that time. They ask that all the mothers will be present.

Polyglot Surely.
Hewitt—"Does your wife know more than one language?" Jewett—"She certainly does; she reads French novels in the original, talks in her sleep in English, discharges the servant in German and converses with our youngest in baby talk."

Mrs. Fanner Books and niece were callers here Wednesday.

Lizzie Bennett is caring for the sick at the home of Ernest Bayless.

Miles Clark's children are having the whooping cough.

The Cainville real estate transfer of Wednesday's issue should have read $750 instead of $250.

K-R-I-T

Underslung

In placing the K-R-I-T Underslung on the market, we have followed the trend of popular demand for a small high-class underslung car.

For the benefit of those who are unacquainted with the advantages of an underslung frame, we would call attention to the increased ease and comfort in riding, and the greatly lessened danger of skidding or turning turtle, made possible by lowering of the center of gravity. This construction permits the use of a high wheel which would give to a car having an overhanging frame a dangerous tendency to turn turtle.

Another feature is the 36-inch wheel, the effect of which on the K-R-I-T Underslung, is proportionately the same as a 42-inch wheel on a car having a wheel base of 130 inches or more. This large wheel not only adds to the comfort of passengers on a rough road, but affords a greater speed for the same amount of power expended.

An original feature of the Underslung is the arrangement of gasoline tank and oil reservoir, so that gasoline, oil, or water may be replenished while driving and without raising the hood of the car.

A few Specifications. Wheel Base 98 inches. Tires 36x3 1/2 inches. Selective sliding gear transmission made of nickel steel. Clearance 10 1/4 inches. Left hand drive, right hand gear shift lever. Motor: K-R-I-T ball bearing unit power plant, straight line shaft drive, 27 Brake H. P. Price: $1000, equipped with 3 oil lamps, horn, jack, pump and tire repair outfit and tool kit.

With special equipment of 5 electric lights, 100 hour storage battery, silk mohair top, complete with side and corner curtains, slip cover, zig zag windshield, 60-mile speedometer with large dial; brass bumper, $1125.00.

Dodge the Coal Hole

If a man walks forward and looks backward, and as a consequence falls down a coal hole, it is a natural result—but it does not make him feel any more comfortable to tell him so. It is better to give warning than to say "I told you so."

The housewife who looks forward to the end that she may realize Economy, Comfort and Convenience in her kitchen will not fall down a coal hole if she uses a Gas Range.

She will save money because Gas is the cheapest modern fuel for cooking.

She will be more comfortable because there is no coal to make trips to every so often to keep the fire going.

The terms upon which Gas Ranges may be purchased are so convenient that it is never a drag upon the purse no matter how strict economy must be practiced. In fact, Cooking on a Gas Range is strict economy.

Send for a representative now and dodge the coal hole.

State government, unless Alaska shall be surrounded by a high stone wall, is something new, and it is utterly groundless. If the government and the people behind it mean business, all the wealth and power of all the combines in existence cannot prevent Alaska from passing into the hands of those whose right it is to have and to hold it—the American people.

The great need of Alaska at this time is population. Population will, in the first place, make a territory out of a district, or force Congress to do it—and Alaska will not long be a territory before it shall become a sovereign state, privileged to manage its own affairs, and to manage them, truth to say, much better than they have been managed under federal guardianship and authority.

Nineteenth of the country proper may be greatly entertained by the latest new and sensational phase of the Alaskan scandal, whatever it may happen to be, but nineteenth of the country, that for the last two years has been devoutly wishing for the end of the scandal, would be much more pleased to learn that some constructive step—no matter how short—had been taken by those who have the interest of the district in charge, and with this yearning of this fraction of the nation—and a most important one—thinking people everywhere throughout the Union will heartily sympathize.

THE EIGHT HOUR LAW.

The so-called eight hour working law for women is not as drastic as some would believe. It provides for not more than ten hours during the day or eight hours if the work is at night. It, however, stipulates that the women employed shall not work more than fifty-five hours in any one week. This means practically that eight hours a day for the entire seven days. It will affect restaurants and hotels, but not any other class of business, but as they mean hours, the working hours, can apparently be taken out of the sum total, it may not be a serious handicap after all. The shop girls in one of Milwaukee's largest establishments have signed a communication to the legislature thanking them for their efforts in behalf of the working women of the state. The law should be read and carefully considered by all persons employing women help so that there can be no mistake in its requirements.

MEN MERE MACHINES.

While inventors thus far have been unable to invent any mechanical contrivance that will take the place of human thought, they have made wonderful steps in revolutionizing the world as a whole. Thus far we have not been able to do away with human direction and human responsibility. Wrecks on railroads, wrecks by autos, and even airplane accidents are all the direct result of human carelessness. Until safety contrivances can be invented that will think for themselves, such loss of life will occur. The Wizard Edison has done much for modern science with his wonderful machines, but thus far no one has created an instrument that will think for the human being whose disregard for human life makes him a menace to civilization.

Highway Commissioner Wilkins has offered a reward of ten dollars for any person who will aid him in the arrest and conviction of the person or persons who throw his signs ordering the dumping of no garbage on vacant lots, into the river. Mr. Wilkins wants to keep Janesville clean and he should be aided in his work.

If you want to help Janesville go ahead and take the place that it should in the state and nation at large, unite your individual efforts with those of the Industrial and Commercial club. This organization is now on a crusade to secure three hundred members and every citizen should join with them.

Again the Janesville fire department fought a stubborn blaze and came out successfully. When one stops to consider the fire in the Amort hotel block, recently, it is a wonder that the building even is standing let alone only suffering damage to the extent of a thousand dollars.

The Janesville Water company has installed a cement drinking fountain in front of their office that is a model for others that should be placed about the city. Take a look at it or better still, try it, and then become convinced.

The Wisconsin State Board of Agriculture has decided to copy Janesville's recent military gathering during the coming season of the state fair in Milwaukee by holding a sham battle. Imitation is the sincerest form of flattery.

Think of it! Mr. Patten lost his overcoat at the King's coronation while visiting in England. One would hardly expect that such a man as Patten would lose his head or anything valuable after all he has done to shear the "sheep" in the Chicago wheat pits.

No corporation should be too high up to be reached by the assessors when they make their rounds and the board of review should not be bluffed by any cry of over-assessment unless they are certain in their own minds it is a just complaint.

With all this agitation over street lighting for the main business thoroughfares, why not consider the small property-owner in the outlying wards and see that he gets even a half light every few blocks.

All over the city are little colonies of boys who have established military camps. The older boys are now organized into a Boy Scouts' brigade and this will teach Young America a lesson long needed.

On the twenty-first of the present month Janesville will entertain the autoists of the reliability run which will take in almost the whole state of Wisconsin.

Nat Goodwin has made a spectacle of himself. As he has done the same thing before perhaps he might be called a "pair of spectacles."

Kansas office-holders are hoping for rain. A crop failure would mean a lot of difference in the complexion of the next set of office-holders.

Catching a big fish caused one man to die from the excitement. Perhaps you are lucky that the big fish you hooked got away.

That Camorrist trial in Italy may end about the time the Lorimer inquiry closes in Washington.

If there is one thing that needs putting out it is the forest fire.

Heart to Heart Talks.

By EDWIN A. NYE.

FORWARD MARCH!

Put your life in front of you—where it belongs. Live in the future, not in the past. Because you are built that way. You are built to go forward, just as a boat is built to run forward and not backward. If the boat backs it is only that it may go forward again.

Do not be a crawler. The crawfish naturally goes backward. It is its normal locomotion. It goes forward only by effort.

You are by nature an optimist. If you have become a pessimist it is because you are abnormal. You are warped. You are sick in body or in mind.

Men must go forward. Nations must make progress.

There's the Hebrew nation—the optimistic nation. The early Hebrews put the golden age in the future, not in the past. Their prophets always looked to a better day ahead, when "the land of the living shall come up from the myrtle tree." They were idealists. Therefore the race owes them much. They gave us something to look for ahead.

There's the Japanese.

Their history is the opposite. For century after century they looked only into the past. They worshiped their ancestors. Their communion was not with the quick, but the dead. Therefore they got nowhere and they contributed nothing to mankind. Only as they have turned their faces partly to the future have they done things.

And you? Live, or normal life.

Let the dead past bury its dead. Live for tomorrow. Project your life.

Push into the full flower of tomorrow the bud that today is ready to bloom.

Do not mourn for the chance that is dead, for the mill will never grind with the water that is past.

Why do men die? Because they have nothing to live for, hope for, strive for.

Forward march!

"And the Lord said to Moses, Speak unto the children of Israel that they go forward."

Let the gods of Egypt go. The land of milk and honey is gold!

Old Vulcan heard the people's wails, where he was making horseshoe nails, and said: "Say, please turn on the drink! Those folks below are on the blink." But Vulcan replied: "Gee whiz! You'll teach me how to run my biz? I tell you, Vals, those mortal men must have a lesson now and then. For many years I've sent them rain, and crops have grown on every plain. Prosperity was at their doors, where now the wolf of famine roars. And while I kept their planet wet, there was a carnival of debt. Men blew their substance, wild and free, as though it grew upon a tree. Their stock of luxuries enlarged, they bought fool things and had them changed. Men threw their money at the stars, and traded homes for chug-chug cars, and rioted at every chance. Like drunken sailors at a dance, and so I cooked their blamed old earth, to teach them what good fortune's worth. When they'll learn to save their little pile."

NAME OFFICERS AT DIRECTORS' MEETING

Janesville Men Re-elected to Offices in Edgerton Electric Light Company—Renew City Lighting Contract.

(Special to the Gazette.)

Edgerton, July 14.—The annual meeting of the Edgerton Electric Light company was held yesterday afternoon at four o'clock in the office of the company. The first order of business was the election of officers, which resulted in the re-election of the following:

President—J. D. Howe.
Vice President—P. W. Conn.
Secy. and Treas.—P. H. Korst.

At the conclusion of the regular business the officers and stockholders, twelve in number, adjourned to the Carlton hotel where an elaborate banquet dinner was enjoyed. After the close of the meeting, however, the members of the common council were invited to meet with them to discuss matters of the renewing of the present city lighting contract. Up to two years ago the local company consisted of all home officers and stockholders, but when a change was made the controlling interest of the institution was purchased by Janesville men and through them the system was enlarged and improved and now ranks among the best in the state.

AIRMAN FALLS 70 FEET; DIES.

Dan A. Kreamer Is Killed in Plunge at Chicago.

Chicago, July 14.—Crashing to the earth in a Curtiss biplane from a height of seventy feet at the aviation field, West Twenty-second and South Forty-fifth avenue, Dan A. Kreamer received injuries from which he died in St. Anthony's hospital.

Two hundred people, among them being many women, witnessed the accident, which brought a horrible death to one of the most popular young western aviators. The biplane, which was entirely wrecked, was the property of James E. Plow, president of the Aero club of Illinois.

The engine of the biplane fell on Kreamer, breaking his back. His death is the first in the history of Chicago resulting from an aeroplane accident. His life was sacrificed for the glory of an international pilot's license which he was seeking.

CURIOUS BITS OF HISTORY

By A. W. Macy.

UPSETTING THE KING.

Shortly after Rollo, ancestor of William the Conqueror, came down from the north and settled in Normandy, Charles III, king of France, also known as Charles the Simple, made him a duke and gave him his sister in marriage. It then became Rollo's duty, as an underlord, to render homage to the king; the homage consisting in kissing the king's great toe. This obsequious act, not very pleasant under favorable circumstances, was peculiarly repugnant to the proud brother-in-law. He therefore delegated the duty to one of his vassals. But the vassal was proud also, and did not relish the privilege of serving as proxy in a matter of this kind. So, when he approached the royal presence, instead of stooping down to do the kissing act, he contemptuously seized the royal foot and raised it to the level of his mouth, thereby upsetting the king and landing him on his imperial back.

DIXON MEN TESTIFY FOR THE STATE IN DES VOIGN CASE

A. C. Moeller, Former Employer of Accused Man and James Qualrapp, Garage Man, Witnesses in Examination This Morning.

Coming here in an automobile from Dixon, Ill., this morning, A. C. Moeller and James Qualrapp, testified as witnesses for the state in the preliminary examination of Walter Des Voign, charged with the murder of a man named Des Voign, who was killed in a fight with Des Voign at Dixon, Ill., on the morning of the 10th inst.

Moeller, who is proprietor of an auto and horse livery in Dixon, was the first witness put on the stand by the state, he testifying that there was no such bank as the "Dixon State National Bank" in Dixon, Ill., as is written across the check which Des Voign is alleged to have passed on Leslie Davis. He named the three banks in Dixon—the City National, Dixon National and Union State banks, and stated there are but two garages in the Illinois city of which Mr. Qualrapp is in charge of one, Joseph Miller being the proprietor of the other. In the examination Moeller stated that Des Voign, who had been employed by him, had been known about the stable as "Morley," but later said that this was Des Voign's middle name.

Des Voign is conducting his own case during the examination with the expectation of having the judge appoint an attorney for him if the case comes to trial, as it probably will.

Two other witnesses were to have been summoned by the state this morning, but one of them, Leslie Davis, was held open until two o'clock this afternoon in the expectation that Mr. Davis would return by that time.

The defendant, Des Voign, was brought in court this morning with his hands and ankles shackled. "Good morning, Des Voign," he said to the judge, and after the morning work was completed the two talked together privately. Des Voign tried to secure funds to hire an attorney to represent him in the examination, but his attempts failed. He appeared extremely nervous at the close of this morning, but still maintained his innocence.

The case was called this afternoon at two o'clock and adjourned until Monday morning, owing to the absence of Davis who is out of town.

WOULD NOT ACCEPT THE COUNTY'S AID

Judge North of Edgerton Would Provide Place in County House for Aged Man Who Has Not Been Seen Since.

Touched with pity at the sight of a despondent and broken down old man before the bar of justice, Judge North of Edgerton, provided a place in the county house for Charles Steffins and furnished him with a railroad ticket to Janesville where he was to be entrusted to Commissioner Asa Anderson. He was to have arrived here Monday but although Mr. Anderson met two trains into the city from Edgerton, nothing was seen of his new charge. Steffins had been given a dollar by some kind person at Edgerton and it is thought by Mr. Anderson that he preferred to look out for his own welfare rather than be dependent on the county.

Steffins is eighty-four years old and is said to be without home or shelter. He was arraigned on a charge of vagrancy. He formerly was a well-to-do farmer in Jefferson county.

The Evening Chit-Chat

By RUTH CAMERON.

A FIREMAN and a pianist,
A crystal ball and a cell,
A jolly fish and a sardine,
And caviar where caviar dwell,
Then a sense of law and beauty,
And a face turned from the cloud,
Some call it evolution,
And others call it God.

A picket frozen on duty,
A mother starved for her brood,
Socrates drinking the hemlock
And Jesus on the cross,
And millions who, humble and nameless,
The straight, hard pathway trod—
Some call it consecration,
And others call it God.
—William Herbert Carruth.

There is a class of thinkers whose state of mind I simply cannot understand. I often wonder if others experience the same bewilderment about them.

The thinkers I mean are those who claim that they are atheists.

A specimen of this queer species, a man who insists that he unswervingly disbelieves in the existence of a God has lately focused my attention on the subject.

I have been wondering again if it is always a pose or if there ever was a man who even way down in the bottom of his heart didn't have the least belief in some kind of a God.

I don't mean that I can't understand the man that doesn't believe in a personal God who watches every act we do and spends his time preparing benediction and blessing all for those who don't follow certain narrow little rules of conduct, and harps and white dresses for those who do.

The man I mean, the one I can't understand, is the man who doesn't believe in any kind of a power greater than man, any definite, intelligent force behind the universe.

The agnostic, the man who asserts that the existence of a God cannot be either proven or denied is a comprehensible creature.

But the atheist—the man who disbelieves and denies the existence of any God—well, don't you truly think that way down in his heart of hearts he knows there is some God?

But if he doesn't—if he is genuine and not a poseur, not even a self-deceiving poseur, aren't you sorry for him with all your heart?

It seems to me that of all men he is the most unfortunate.

It seems to me that we might with reason cease our effort to bring cheer to the blind, the bereaved, the shut-in, the sick and suffering, and just concentrate on him. For he needs it more than all the rest.

Don't you think so?

"Live not without a friend! The Alpine rock must own its mossy grace or else be nothing but a stone."

Live not without a God! However low or high,
In every house should be a window to the sky."
—William Wetmore Story.

Heart and Home Talks.

By Barbara Boyd

Simple Talks on Health.

High Level Living.

Get the most out of life, both in achievement and enjoyment, one needs to live at the highest level. This does not necessarily mean living at high tension or high pressure. In fact, one cannot live at the highest level without having efficient physical machinery and efficient mental machinery; and when one is living at high pressure, one is not always most efficient.

Living at high level means using the best of one's self, not the lowest, or the least. High level living is a condition of growth. This is the healthy condition and the happy condition, for happiness is a consequence of health and right achievement.

If we live at a low level, that is, if we drudge along doing just as little as possible, we deplete every faculty for thought and high feeling. We make drudgery of life. We sink into a rut, and we become content to stay in that rut. Life becomes circumscribed.

Sometimes we sink to this low level of living because our physical machinery is out of order. Flabby muscles are often the chasm between willing and doing. To some extent, we tread in a circle. We live at the low level because we lack energy to rise. And we lack energy to rise because we live at this low level.

For living at a low level brings stagnation. Our blood flows sluggishly. Our mind is inactive. Our physical and mental machinery is clogged.

One, then, must make the break to get out of this endless circle, this treadmill of existence. One must get above these minuscule lowlands of life.

A sound body is the foundation upon which to build upward. With a good body to stand upon, the highest levels can be reached. And a sound body is not such a difficult matter to acquire, if one will go earnestly about getting it or keeping it. Obeyance to certain simple laws of health will keep the body in trim. Right food, sufficient exercise, fresh air, rest, recreation. Most people break or neglect all these laws. Their energy drops below par, and they too, drop to a low level of living. And work and life become monotonous drudgery.

If a person is sound physically and still lives at a low level, he is suffering from mental inertia. He probably doesn't realize what high level living means. He doesn't glimpse its joys, its exhilarations. He should wake up. He should put himself in touch with others who live the larger life, and thus he will come to see how worth while high level living is.

And high level living is for all. It isn't only for the professional man or the man of leisure. Every one should live at his highest level, the little shop girl, the clerk, the business man, the mother. Children grow away from a mother who herself does not grow and keep her life vivid. Living at the highest level means dwelling on the mountain tops of life where one sees life in its fullness on all sides. It is decidedly worth while. And many of us have unsuspected levels in us to which we can yet climb.

WHAT DO YOU DO TO PROVIDE ENTERTAINMENT?

Summer Time and Cool Home Ideas
Either in the City or Country—
Can You Tell About It?

Have you ever stopped to think just what sort of an entertainment you would furnish a party of friends if you invited them to your home, up the river on a picnic or to an evening porch party?

Years ago when a picnic was talked of you always knew there would be some sort of athletic games, in which men and women, young and old, joined. There were lots of them then but nowadays it is hard to rack your brains for thoughts as to entertainments.

The Gazette knows that this subject is interesting to all its readers and feels certain that it would be a good thing to discuss openly. The card games that do for the winter evenings should be forgotten in the summer. The idea is to obtain a series of entertainments that bring out the good red blood of the visitors.

There are lots of forms that this entertainment can take and for the best answers to this contest The Gazette will give the following prizes:

First Prize—Caloric Fireless Cook-stove.
Second Prize—Set of 45 pieces of Flow Blue Dishes.
Third Prize—Vacuum Bottle.
Fourth Prize—Sampson Kitchen Scales.

The contest will end August 1st.

HOT WEATHER HINTS.

Also very early and do the hot work before the heat of the day. It is surprising how much more can be done from five to six than from ten to eleven. There are no interruptions, as the majority of people prefer to take their "forty morning winks."

Have the work dresses made simply with a square or round neck, without a collar, and the sleeves elbow length. Such a dress is a real comfort if it is short enough.

Stimply the house furnishings in the warm weather as we do our food and clothing. Put away the bric-a-brac and dust-gathering things. Fill the house with flowers, cover the cushions with linen, remove heavy rugs and simplify housekeeping in every department. If there is a small porch off from the kitchen big enough for a table and covered with vines, have that for a breakfast room. It is a splendid way to start the day.

Iron only the necessary articles, press out the hems of sheets and buy white crepe cloth for underwear that needs no ironing.

Serve fresh fruit often for dessert, and do away with the cooling. The result will tell in disposition as well as in digestion.

If the house is lighted by lamps or gas, use candles for going to bed, they give sufficient light with much less heat.

If one is using gas it is necessary to do as much as possible with the heat because of the expense, as well as the comfort. If water must be heated for any purpose while the oven burners are lighted, set the pan in the lower oven under the flame. A small portable oven is a great convenience, and if a flat iron or two is put on top it is kept steady, which is its greatest disadvantage. For a small family this oven will do about all the baking except the bread, and a single loaf may be nicely baked in one of the small burner ovens.

PERRY'S VISIT TO JAPAN.

July 11.—Matthew C. Perry was the American naval officer who served in the war of 1812 with such distinction that the navy department decided that he could play ball in the big leagues. The Fulton, the first steam vessel of the navy, was built under his direction. After serving as envoy to France and England he was promoted commodore and sent to the African coast to suppress the slave trade. In 1852 he made history. In that year President Fillmore sent Perry to Japan as bearer of a letter of good will to the Mikado. Up to that time the Japs had been living as exclusively as Andy Carnegie at Skibo Castle, only it's a cliché that the daily menu was not in a class with Andy's. Perry arrived in Japan, July 14, 1853. He delivered his little note, which made such a hit with the little brown men that in 1854 a treaty was signed at Yokohama that gave the Japs a right to do anything except run the state of California. Perry is given the credit of "bringing the Japs out" like they say in theatrical and prize ring parlance, and some there are who wonder if "wouldn't have been better to have left them 'in."

Uncontrollable.

It is stated that the heart of a vegetarian beats 58 times a minute and that of a meat eater 75 times, but who can count the beats of a heart whose possessor beholds for the first time an apple-cheeked, bright-eyed California maiden when she comes from the perfumed fields in the rosy mien laden with golden poppies?—Los Angeles Herald.

Needed Approval.

"Do you think they approved of my sermon?" asked the newly appointed rector, hopeful that he had made a good impression. "Yes, I think so," replied his wife. "They were all nodding."

Fads and Fashions

New York July 15.—At this time of the year the selection of a suitable outfit for the summer outing is a matter of serious consideration. The best choice depends in a great measure upon the place where one intends to spend the summer months. A fashionable seashore resort demands a different outfit from that which would be suitable for a more popular resort and, of course, the same may be said as to the requirements in mountain resorts and in lake resorts.

White serge is an excellent material for shore resorts or yachting, and women whose summer plans include a sojourn on the sea shore will find it almost indispensable to provide themselves with one or two frocks of light-weight serge in white or in stripes of black upon a white ground. These frocks can easily be made at home or can be purchased for very little at the shops.

The white silk serge, which is found in many qualities in the fashionable shops, may be made up on severely tailored lines or in dressier semi-tailored fashion, and a little heavy lace, fish or flit by preference, is often used as trimming, appearing in the shape of a big collar if in nothing else. Embroidered muslin may be used as a collar in place of the lace, and occasionally a model shows a collar of hemstitched chiffon in black or bright color, falling over a collar of the silk or a collar of striped silk in black and white or white and color.

On the white serge frocks and coats similar collar and trimming ideas are exploited and plain one-tone satin in black or bright color is also used for collecting touches. An exceedingly chic little coat and frock costume of fine white serge falling low over a skirt band of black satin and black cuffs and such belt of the jaunty short coat, as well as for the buttons of the costume.

Another modish white serge had big revers of hemstitched purple chiffon draped across the front of the coat from the right shoulder to the left side of the high waist line. Big buttons were embroidered in purple and a purple veilletore defined the waist.

But the best looking of the white serge and white and black stripe woolsens are the more simply tailored models with color introduced but lightly if used at all. Some French models are stitched in silk of bright color and have touches of the same color about the collar and girdle. Colored linen, too, is used upon white serge, dull blue, bright brown, rose or green linen forming collar, cuffs and perhaps trimming bands. One good model in white serge had linen trimming in dull blue, and upon this blue linen were narrow bands of white linen set with lines of little black buttons.

Collars and cuffs of white linen hemstitched in bright color are pretty upon a simple, one-piece white serge

DAILY DIET AND HEALTH HINTS

By DR. T. J. ALLEN

"LOW PROTEIN" DIET THE BEST.

"The yellow gall that in your bosom floats engenders all these melancholy thoughts," wrote the poet Dryden. And it is certainly true that one great cause of depression of spirit is bile in the blood. It is also true that excess of bile arises from too much proteid or albuminous elements in the diet. It follows, therefore, that healthful buoyancy is promoted by what is termed a "low proteid" diet; that is, restricting to a small percentage the amount of proteid consumed daily—say ten per cent.; sugars (preferably fruit sugar), starches and fats constituting the remainder.

LEGISLATURE MAKES RADICAL CHANGE IN HOURS FOR WORKERS

New Law Which Affects Women Workers Is Published Below for Reference.

There has been so much discussion over the proposed change in the working hours for women, that workers and many manufacturers appear to be in entire ignorance of the real purpose of the law. The law as it was passed is published below. It appears that much has been said about the law that is incorrect so that the full text is given below.

The text of the bill is as follows:

Chapter 548, Laws of 1911.

Section 1. There is added to the statutes 1728-1. 1. No female shall be employed or permitted to work in any manufacturing, mechanical or mercantile establishment, laundry or restaurant, or entertainment place, or telegraph or telephone office or exchange, or by any express or transportation company, in this state, more than ten hours during any one day, or more than fifty-five hours in any one week.

The hours may be so arranged as to permit the employment of females at any time, but they shall not work more than ten hours during the twenty-four hours of any one day, nor more than fifty-five hours during one week. It is, however, any part of a female's daily employment is performed between the hours of 8 o'clock p. m. and 6 o'clock a. m. of the following day, all the employment shall be considered night work, and no such female so employed at night work shall be employed or permitted to work there more than eight hours in any twenty-four hours nor more than forty-eight hours during one week. If any such female is employed not more than one night in the week after 8 o'clock a. m. hereinafter provided, then such female may be permitted to work in excess of the hours in any such week.

Provided, that at least one hour for dinner be allowed each female during her working period, but no part of such hour shall be considered as a part of the prescribed period of daily employment.

Every employer shall post in a conspicuous place in every room where such females are employed a printed notice stating the hours of commencing and stopping such work, the time allowed for dinner or other meals, and the maximum number of hours any female employee is permitted to work in any one day.

3. The employment of any female in any such place or establishment, as defined in sub-section 1, of this section, at any time other than those of the prescribed hours of labor, as hereinbefore provided for, shall be prima facie evidence of a violation of this act.

4. Any person violating any provision of this section shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction thereof, shall be punished by a fine of not less than five nor more than one hundred dollars.

Section 2. This act shall take effect and be in force from and after its passage and publication.

The Taming of Red Butte Western...

By FRANCIS LYNDE

PROLOGUE.

Red Butte Western, the most hopelessly demoralized railroad west of the Rockies, a road that is a joke and a tragedy; as desperate a lot of outlaws as ever ran trains or ditched them; a railroad superintendent who says he is a coward and then tackles one of the toughest tasks a railroad man ever had to solve; a fond lover and a beautiful girl; wrecks, thefts, gun plays and highwaymen—all these stand out vividly in one of the most thrilling stories of railroad life ever written, a story of the Red desert, where chaos takes the place of order and where the large caliber revolver is the law.

CHAPTER I.

"COLLARS AND CHAINS."

THE windows of the division headquarters of the Pacific Southwestern at Copiah look northward over bald, brown mesas and across the Pamblito to the eroded cliffs of the Utah hills. The prospect, looking vegetation, arid atmosphere and color, is crude and rather harshly aggressive, and to Lidgerwood, glooming thoughtfully upon it through the weather worn panes scratched and bedimmed by many desert sandstorms, it was peculiarly depressing.

"No, Ford; I hate to disappoint you, but I'm not the man you are looking for," he said, turning back to things present and in suspense and speaking as one who would add a reason to unqualified refusal. "I've been looking over the ground while you were coming on from New York. It isn't in us to bog the Red Butte Western into a well behaved division of the P. S. W."

The grave eyed man who had borrowed Superintendent Leckhard's pivot chair nodded intelligently.

"That is what you have been saying, with variations, for the last half hour."

"Because the job asks for gifts that I don't possess. At the present moment the Red Butte Western is the most hopelessly demoralized 300 miles of railroad west of the Rockies. There is no system, no discipline, no respect for authority. The men run the road as if it were a huge joke. Add to these conditions the fact that the Red desert is a country where the large caliber revolver is—"

"Yes, I know all that," interrupted the man in the chair. "The road and the region need civilization—need it badly. That is one of the reasons why I am trying to persuade you to take hold. You are long on civilization, Howard."

"Not on the kind which has to be incited by main strength and a cheerful disregard for consequences. I'm no scrapper."

"To the eye of appraisal Lidgerwood's personal appearance bore out the peaceable assertion to the final well groomed detail. Compactly built and neatly dressed, he was a man of action when his earlier tastes and inclinations had drawn him in other directions. But the temperamental qualities—the peaceableness, the exactness, the thoroughness—which, finding no outlet in an artistic calling, had made him a master in his unchosen profession were well known to Mr. Stuart Ford, first vice president of the Pacific Southwestern system. And it was largely for the sake of these qualities that Ford looked his hands over one knee and spoke as a man and a comrade."

"Let me tell you, Howard, you've no idea what a savage fight we've had in New York absorbing these same demoralized 300 miles. You know why we were obliged to have them. If the Superintendent had taken them over here from Jack's Canyon, divide the Copiah business with us and have a line 300 miles nearer to the Nevada gold fields than ours."

"President Brewster has a copper property somewhere in the vicinity of Angels, and he knows the road. He contended that we were buying two streaks of rust and a right of way in the Red desert. Now then, that he asserted that the executive officer didn't live who could bring order out of the chaos into which had management and a peculiarly tough environment had plunged the Red Butte Western. That's where I had him bested, Howard. All through the hot fight I kept saying over and over to myself that I knew the man."

"But you don't know him, Stuart; that is the weak link in the chain. If it were merely a matter of technical fitness I suppose I might go over to Angels and do what you want done with the 300 miles of demoralization."

Knowledge.

When you know a thing, to hold that you know it; and when you do not know a thing, to allow that you do not know it; this is knowledge.—Confucius.

BARRE

But the Red Butte proposition asks for more, for something that I can't give it. Stuart, there is a yellow streak in me that you seem never to have discovered. I am a coward."

The ghost of an incredulous smile wrinkled about the tired eyes of the big man in the pivot chair.

"You forget that I have known you pretty much all your life, Howard. Let me recall one of the boyhood pictures that have never faded. It was just after school one hot day in the Illinois September. Our crowd had gone down to the pond back of the schoolhouse, and two of us were paddling around on a raft made of sawmill shavings. One of the two—who always had more drowsy drowsiness than sense under his shirt—was so silly enough to 'rock' the boat, and it went to pieces. You couldn't swim, Howard, but if you hadn't forgotten that trilling headlamp and walloped in to pull poor Billy Munnish ashore I should have been a murderer."

Lidgerwood shook his head.

"You think you have made your case, but you haven't. What you say is true enough. I wasn't afraid of drowning; didn't think much about it either way. I guess. But what I say is true also. There are many kinds of courage and quite as many kinds of cowardice. I am a coward of men."

"Oh, no, you're not; you only think you are," protested the one who thought he knew. But Lidgerwood would not let that stand.

"I know I am. Fear me through and then judge for yourself. What I am going to tell you I have never told to any living man, but it is your right to hear it. Lidgerwood, you don't know what fear means—the degradation, the hot and cold chills of self loathing, the selenic industry of having your own soul turn upon you to rend and tear you like a rabid dog?"

"No, I don't know what it means," said the other man, moved more than he cared to admit by the subject confession.

"Of course you don't. Nobody else can know. I am paying the price here and now. This is the fourth time I have had to refuse a good offer that carried with it the fighting chance."

The vice president's heavy eyebrows slanted in questioning surprise.

"You know in advance that you were going to turn me down. Yet you came a thousand miles to meet me here, and you admit that you have gone the length of looking the ground over."

Lidgerwood's smile was without teeth.

"A regular recurring phase of the disease. It manifests itself in a determination to break away and do or die in the effort to win a little self respect."

The vice president was still a young man, and he was confronting a problem that annoyed him. He had been calling himself, and not without reason, a fair judge of men. Yet here was a man whom he had known intimately from boyhood, who was but just now revealing a totally unsuspected quality.

"How do you know you wouldn't back up when the real pinch comes?" he demanded.

"Because the pinch came once, and I didn't back up. It was over a year ago, and to this good day I can't think calmly about it. You will understand when I say that it cost me the love of the one woman in the world."

The vice president did understand. Being a married lover himself, he could measure the depth of the abyss into which Lidgerwood was looking.

His rules were as sympathetic as a woman's when he said: "Go ahead and ease your mind; tell me about it. If you can, Howard. It's barely possible that you are not the best judge of your own act."

"It was in the Montana mountains," said Lidgerwood. "I was going in to do a bit of expert engineering for her father. Incidentally I was escorting her and her mother from the railroad and that pretty sweeping changes are impending. They are looking for trouble and are quite ready to help make it. If you could discharge them in a body you couldn't replace them. In the Red desert having nothing to offer as a dwelling place for civilized men, and this they know too. Howard, I'm tell-of the real thing as remote as a visit from Mars, I could be an ass and a braggart. One of the men, a salesman for a poultry company, gave me the rope wherewith to hang myself. He argued for nonresistance, and I remember that I grow sympathetic over the spectacle afforded by a grown man, armed and in possession of his five senses, permitting himself to be robbed without attempting to resist. You can guess what followed."

"I'd rather hear you tell it," said the listener at Superintendent Leckhard's desk. "Go on."

"Three miles beyond the supper station we had our halting place, a couple of Winchestera poking through the scrub pines to represent the gang in hiding and one lone, crippled desperado to come down to the footlights in the speaking part. You get the picture?"

"Yes; I've seen the original."

"Before anybody realized what was happening the cripple had us lined up in a row beside the stage, and I was reaching for the stars quite as anxiously as the little salesman, who was averting that the twenty dollar bill in his right hand pocket was his entire fortune."

"Naturally," Ford commented. "You needn't rattle yourself for that. You've been worsted often enough and long enough at a time to know the rules of the game—not to be frivolous when the other fellow has the drop on you."

"Wait," said Lidgerwood. "One minute into the cripple had sized us up for what we were. The other three men were not armed. I was, and Miss Munnish—the young woman knew it. Also the cripple knew it. He tapped the gun bulging in my pocket and said, in good natural contempt, 'Watch out that thing don't go off and hurt you some time when you ain't lookin', stranger.' Ford, I think I must have been hypnotized. I stood there like a frozen hump and let that crippled cow rustler rob those two women—take the rings from their fingers."

"Oh, hold on; there's another side to all that, and you know it," the vice president began, but Lidgerwood would not listen.

"No," he protested; "don't try to find excuses for me. There were none. The fellow gave me every chance, turned his back on me as an absolutely negligible factor while he was going through the others. To save my soul from everlasting torments I couldn't go through the simple motions of pulling the pistol from my pocket and dropping that fellow in his tracks; couldn't and didn't."

"Why, of course you couldn't after it had got that far along," asserted Ford. "I doubt if any one could. That little remark about the gun in your pocket did you up."

"But the fact remained," said Lidgerwood, sparing himself not at all. "I was weighed and found wanting; that is the only point worth considering."

"Well," queried Ford when the self condemned culprit turned again to the darkened window, "what came of it?"

"That which was due to come. I was told many times and in many different ways what the one woman thought of me. For the few days during which she and her mother waited at her father's mine for the coming of the Yellowstone party she used me for a doorman, as I deserved. That was a year ago last spring. I haven't seen her since; haven't tried to."

"Howard," said the vice president, "you haven't exaggerated the conditions on the Red Butte line an atom. As you say, the operating force is as godless a lot of outlaws as ever ran trains or ditched them. They all know that the road has been bought and sold and that pretty sweeping changes are impending. They are looking for trouble and are quite ready to help make it. If you could discharge them in a body you couldn't replace them. In the Red desert having nothing to offer as a dwelling place for civilized men, and this they know too. Howard, I'm telling you right now that it will require a higher brand of courage to go over to Angels and manhandle the Red Butte Western as a division of the P. S. W. than it would to face a dozen highwaymen if every individual one of the dozen had the drop on you."

Lidgerwood left his chair and began to pace the narrow limits of the private office, five steps and a turn.

"You mean that you are still giving me the chance to make good over yonder in the Red desert—after what I have told you?"

"I do, only I'll make it more binding. It was optional with you before; it's a sheer necessity now. You've got to go."

In the end Lidgerwood yielded, as the vice president's subjects commonly did.

"I'll go if you still insist upon it," was the slowly spoken decision.

"There will doubtless be plenty of trouble, and I shall probably show the yellow streak—for the last time, perhaps. It's the kind of an outfit to kill a coward for the pure pleasure of it. If I'm not mistaken."

(To be Continued.)

Every large city in the United States contains countless numbers of worn out, half sick men and women with poor appetites and bad digestion. They have cold feet, sallow complexions and they say they are "rundown."

The right name for the trouble is nervous debility and it is produced by the strain and haste and worry of modern life.

Many think indigestion causes the half bad feeling which afflicts them and they take "something to digest their food."

This is all wrong. It may afford temporary relief but the cause of their stomach trouble is the nervous, debilitated condition of the entire system and this must be overcome before the stomach will perform its functions properly.

Nervous debility is a modern ailment caused by city life. There is a modern tonic that overcomes this trouble like magic. It is called Tona Vita. If you are afflicted with nervous debility don't wait another day feeling miserable. Stop dosing your stomach. Get this great tonic and you will be astonished how quickly your strength and ambition will return and how your stomach trouble will disappear.

Tona Vita is sold on trial and must bring back your health or the price is refunded.

Lee's Rhubarb Laxative is the assistant remedy to Tona Vita and is used in cases of chronic constipation. There is nothing equal to rhubarb as a natural harmless laxative. Harsher drugs attack the intestines and leave them weak. Rhubarb acts as a tonic and gives them strength. Tona Vita and Lee's Rhubarb Laxative are sold in Janesville by The Smith Pharmacy. They are splendid modern medicines.

"As for you," she turned upon Griswold anew. "I pray Heaven I shall never hear your name again unless it be under circumstances that will give me further opportunity to revenge myself upon you!"

Silence followed the theatrical outburst of the woman. Griswold stood with clasped hands, his eyes on the floor. Mrs. Missioner, her eyes resolutely averted from his crouching form, gazed at Britz expectantly. Elmer, her fine womanhood still with sympathy in spite of her weeks of suffering—more keenly because of it, perhaps—sought to soothe the agitation of Mrs. Delaroché, who was close to collapse. Fitch, too, strove to calm the woman. As a man he pitied her; as a physician, he felt some alarm for her because of the great excitement to which she had wrought herself—excitement plainly beyond the endurance of her emotional nature. A feeling akin to indignation stirred him when, glancing toward Britz, he saw a sarcastic smile on the detective's face.

"Bravo!" said the lieutenant detective at last. "Unlucky, Mrs. Delaroché! If it were not for detaining our good friends, I'd insist upon an encore."

The heroine of the Renaissance burglary flashed furious eyes upon him. Fitch, despite all he knew Britz had done for Elmer, could not conceal his anger. Even Miss Holcomb was indignant. Mrs. Missioner and Standa looked at the detective expectantly. Manning's face was impassive. He was prepared for any surprise from his shrewd lieutenant.

"You behold in Mrs. Delaroché," said Britz, including everybody in a sweep of his hand, "one of the most talented actresses in America. True, she isn't on the stage, but that's only because the managers haven't discovered her. If any of the big managers saw such an example of her art as this, he'd engage her on the spot."

"I don't understand you, Mr. Britz," said Mrs. Missioner inquiringly.

"Mrs. Delaroché understands me, Mrs. Missioner," returned the sleuth. "She knows exactly what I mean. Don't you, Mrs. Delaroché?"

"No!" said the woman from the Renaissance so sharply the word was like a poniard thrust.

"No!" retorted the detective, "How truly unfortunate! Surely you are mistaken, madam; surely you recall what happened in Paris? It can't be you've forgotten how you obtained possession of the Missioner necklace—the one with the Maharane diamond, you know?"

She clung to silence as to a rock of refuge. Britz, still looking lightly on his heels, raised a finger warningly and looked at her with that same sarcastic smile.

"You know as well as I do, Mrs. Delaroché," he went on, "that Curtis Griswold didn't steal the Maharane necklace. Whatever other crimes are upon him, he is guiltless of that—in act, at any rate."

The woman kept her eyes on the floor, her face partly turned away. All the others stared at Britz in amazement, not excepting the Chief of the Detective Bureau.

"Let's run through the pages of history, Mrs. Delaroché," continued the lieutenant. "Personal history, of course—the history of clever little Miss Vincent, one of the brightest young women in Paris. You remember her when she was an art student there, getting along as well as she could on a New England income in the Latin Quarter. A bright, clever little girl, she was, to be sure, and it was too bad she had such a hard struggle to realize her artistic dreams."

All his hearers listened attentively—Mrs. Delaroché, in spite of resolute efforts to appear indifferent, full as faithfully as the others.

Prince Kananda moved forward until he stood within several feet of Mrs. Delaroché. She turned her head slightly and saw him. A glance of mutual recognition passed between them, but so quickly that it was unobserved by the others. The Prince eyed her steadily, with malignant gaze, as of a man who had been tricked. A wild fear leaped into her snapped. "It's your last chance to tell the truth."

"I stole the collar from Mr. Missioner," she admitted. "It was shortly before his death, a long time ago. The plot had all been laid. Griswold and Prince Kananda got me to do it. I met Griswold through Mr. Missioner. He made love to me, made me believe he wanted to marry me. Then, one day, he proposed the plan to steal the jewels. It almost made me laugh, for I was already trying to get them for the Prince. His plan was to have me induce Mr. Missioner to let me wear them one night and disappear with the collar about my throat."

"I had agreed to do this, when Griswold—she cast a withering look at the clubman—brought me the substitute. He didn't know, of course, that I was in the pay of the Prince, and I didn't inform him of it. Well, one night Mr. Missioner, after much urging on my part, took the collar from his wife's jewel box and let me wear it at a little supper party. It was then I made the substitution."

"What did you do with the real necklace?" Manning interjected.

"I kept it," Mrs. Delaroché returned with a bland smile. "I informed the Prince that I had changed my mind about committing the robbery, and told Mr. Griswold that I had been unable to make the substitution."

"But the paste jewels he had given you—what did you tell him in regard to them?" Britz asked.

"I simply told him I had lost them," she replied. "The fact of the matter is, I fooled both the Prince and Mr. Griswold. Of course, when Mrs. Missioner discovered the robbery, Mr. Griswold guessed what I had done, and since then he has been urging me to turn the real jewels over to him. But I was determined not to let him have them until our marriage," she added in a voice laden with the vindictiveness she felt.

The semicircle of listeners contracted until Mrs. Missioner, Miss Holcomb, Standa, and Fitch were close to Britz. The detective, turning to the others, said:

"I have had the good fortune to recover the Maharane diamond for you, Mrs. Missioner, and it remains only to trace the other jewels of the necklace. I dare say Prince Kananda can tell us where they are."

"As I told you over the telephone, Lieutenant Britz," Mrs. Missioner answered, "I have recovered my jewels."

"All?" replied the widow. "Moreover, I do not care to prosecute anyone connected with their disappearance."

"Not the Hindus who were responsible for their second disappearance—is it possible you do not wish them to be punished?" Britz expostulated.

"I do not," said Mrs. Missioner quietly. "I understand their connection with the mystery thoroughly. In spite of the drastic methods they pursued, I do not blame them. They did not seek the lesser stones of the necklace. In fact, those gems were returned to me this morning by one of the Orientals—a man of scholarly attainment and high character, whom I met in the East. These devotees—fanatics, if you will—have braved death and imprisonment to recover a jewel which I take it is precious in their eyes as was the Holy Grail to the Crusaders. It is a question not merely of religion, but of extreme piety with them. Under such circumstances I cannot consent to appear against them, nor to countenance any attempt to punish them. Besides, there was a mistake in the acquisition of the Maharane diamond. It belongs to these men of the East. They are free to take it. I surrender all claim upon it."

With an air of unmistakable respect Britz turned toward the widow.

"In the eyes of the law," he said, extending the big Maharane, "this stone is yours. You may do with it as you choose."

Mrs. Missioner accepted the stone, permitting her eyes to linger a moment on its blazing splendor. Then she wheeled abruptly and passed the diamond to the Prince.

"It is yours," she said. "Take it."

Kananda's eager fingers closed on the gem.

"Mrs. Missioner has restored your property," Britz said, turning to the Oriental, "and I dare say the Chief will agree with me that it is not necessary for us to take your case as far as the District Attorney's office. You and your fellow countrymen are at liberty to go. I advise you to go quickly before I get to thinking too strongly about that little up-and-down ride you gave me in Riverside drive. I have the honor to wish your loyal allegiance a very good morning!"

He made a mock obeisance as the Hindus, released from their shining steel bonds, filed silently out of the room.

"Miss Holcomb," said Britz, "Chief Manning will procure your release in just about the time it takes us to go from here to the court. You will be discharged at once. Yes, doctor, that will be a complete vindication of your fiancée. My best wishes for your happiness."

Britz then turned to Mrs. Missioner. "As for the prisoner, Griswold, Mrs. Missioner," he said, "it makes little difference to him that he was not arrested for the theft of your diamonds. The directors of the Ironclad Trust Company have a case against him strong enough to send him up the river for a long while. I trust, Mr. Standa," Britz added significantly, "that in your new-found happiness you will forget the momentary unpleasantness between us. After all, you see, I was acting in your interests."

The rare smile the millionaire flashed at the lieutenant as with a proprietary air he took Doris Missioner's hand in his was as eloquent an expression of friendly gratitude as anyone in society or "the Street" would expect of "Silent" Sands.

THE END.

(5.) Upon which depends most the character of children, the father or the mother?

(6.) Verses 3-5—In what particular respect did Manasseh sin against God?

(7.) That land was rife with idolatry, and God made strict laws against it; why did he do so?

(8.) What were in those days the grave evils of idolatry?

(9.) What habits to-day, among Christian people, are equivalent to idolatry?

(10.) What are the results of present-day idolatrous habits?

(11.) Verses 6-10—How long did God say that the Israelites should possess the land of Canaan, and on what conditions?

(12.) Watch of God's promises if any, are absolute or unconditioned?

(13.) Verses 9-10—When good people become degenerate, are they or not generally worse than those who have always been bad?

(14.) How did God probably speak to Manasseh and his people, and how does God speak to sinners to-day?

(15.) Verse 11—God is here said to have brought the army of the king of Assyria to war with Israel, and to take Manasseh prisoner as a result of his sin. How God in these days punish sin in any such material way?

(16.) Verses 12-20—What is the general effect of punishment upon sinners?

(17.) Why did not Manasseh know that the Lord was God before his punishment and repentance?

(18.) God freely forgave Manasseh the moment he repented; does he always act the same way with sinners?

(19.) Were all the effects of Manasseh's sin blotted out, as well as the sins themselves? (This is one of the questions that may be answered in writing by members of the club.)

Gold Comfort.

Douglas Jerrold's wit made it difficult for him to be the "ministering angel" that a man of less humor might have been to friends in trouble. The writer, George Huddle, went to Jerrold one day to tell him of difficulties into which he had fallen. "I want you to help me," he said. "The Morning Gazette has dismissed me." "You don't say, my dear George," they've had a gleam of intelligence at last. "Don't joke," returned Huddle. "I really want your advice. I'm thinking of going into the coal trade." "Capital!" said Jerrold. "You've got the sack to begin with!"—Youth's Companion.

The Skin and Not the Blood.

Until recently it has been a generally accepted proposition that eczema was a disease of the blood, and that in order to cure it, the blood must be purified and enriched by internal remedies. Careful experiments and scientific investigations have taught us that eczema is purely a skin disease, and curable through the skin alone. A great majority of persons afflicted with eczema have no other ailment, which is accepted as positive proof that it is purely a skin disease. Having established this fact, the chemists of the American Drug and Press Association set about to compound a prescription that would successfully cope with this disease, and after much investigating brought out Meritol Eczema Remedy, the effect of which is marvelous. If you are afflicted with this loathsome disease, do not delay trying Meritol Eczema Remedy. You will be surprised at its prompt action, its soothing effect and its permanent results. ### Heavy Luggage.

Every tramp squares and squares with a heavy bag or suit case in your hand—the weight apparently increasing every minute? It's trying, nerve-racking and decidedly uncomfortable, isn't it? People who have experienced this will surely call down blessings upon the head of the inventor of rattan or straw bags and suit cases. They have so little weight and the cost is so slight that every girl or man who goes away for short trips where a small case is necessary and where the luggage must be carried by hand should invest in one of these sensible luggage carriers.

Modest Request.

Mrs. Turtle—I see by the papers here that an automobile ran down a 20-foot embankment and turned turtle. Now, Henry, what I want you to do is to run up a 20-foot embankment and turn into an automobile. You know I've wanted one this long while.—Chicago Magazine.

Is a Lucky Kid.

Beatrice Singleberry of Miles avenue is a lucky kid, says the Cleveland Leader. Every one of her wishes bears fulfillment. If she finishes up as she began there is no telling what the gods may have in store for her. When the news got about that there was a brand new baby in the family a friend made inquiries and learned that the newcomer was a little boy, named Robert. "Robert?" inquired the friend. "I can't think of anyone in the family after whom the baby is named. I never heard of a Robert on either side of the house." "No," spoke up Beatrice. "I had a little dog that died and I asked papa to name my brother after my doggie. And he did."

Psychology of Fashion.

One sometimes wonders which is the greater, the audacity of those few men who decide what all fashionable women must wear, or the abnegation of the women who adopt fashions which cannot possibly suit them all.
